Meet the March 2019 FWA Member of the Month and see what she is doing in the Financial community.

Please tell us about your FWA journey so far!

I joined the FWA about 2 years ago after someone mentioned the organization to me. I decided to find out more about the FWA online and applied!

When I joined, I wanted to get involved very quickly because I believe it's the best way to network and get more visibility. After a call with Ria Davis (Executive Director) and Nina Batson (Executive Vice President), I became Co-Chair for the Distinguished Speakers Committee, and later for the Executive Speakers Committee.

My experience as Co-Chair has been very fulfilling so far: It has given me more visibility as a speaker at events and additional contacts that help expand my coaching business. For example, I ran a workshop for members focusing on Distinctive Uniqueness and spoke at two closing sessions of the Wall Street Exchange Summer Program as well as another event during the first year, and I have also been offered several speaking opportunities at financial institutions by FWA members, which eventually resulted in private coaching clients from those firms.

How does your focus on your Powerful Leadership Transformation (PLT)<sup>TM</sup> benefit professionals in the financial services industry?

In the United States, my observation is that women in finance enjoy my content because it focuses on an Empowering Mindset, Distinctive Uniqueness and a Body-Conscious Presence. These concepts are not usually brought up at work. That being said, women understand how these concepts relate to their working environment and how they benefit them to drive their careers. In addition to my own IP, I also added Conversational Intelligence (C-IQ)® to my repertoire. It's a powerful tool for leaders to navigate more successfully through team conversations, and for anyone to upgrade their negotiation competence.
